

JANE CARTNEY CT ABRSM

LANGUAGE AND PERFORMANCE COACH

Jane Cartney is a professional singer, teacher and choral conductor, who, in addition to performing engagements in oratorio, recital, and with her jazz quartet, runs a private teaching practice in Weston-super-Mare.

Specialised coaching for advanced amateur and professional singers is offered in both performance, and the practical use of languages in singing.

Areas covered are: individually tailored coaching in performance preparation and technique, including warming up and energising the body and voice; voice clinic giving advice on improving vocal and breathing techniques, and care of the singer's voice; interpretation of song; advanced repertoire study and preparation of the role; coaching in English, French, German, Italian and Latin, including a strong emphasis on communication with the audience by clear and focussed diction and phonation.

Superior studio facilities are offered with a Steinway grand piano. An extensive library of recordings, specialist books and scores is available for the use of those students who are attending a short course.

Students can be accepted at any time for either single coaching sessions, or a short course. For singers not already known to me, acceptance for coaching is arranged following a formal assessment coaching session.

To benefit fully from coaching, singers are encouraged to bring their own piano accompanist, although minimal accompaniment will be provided if this is not possible.
